(The Hosting News) – Rackspace Hosting will assist CERN with discovering the origins of the universe.

The two companies revealed a deal on Monday, allowing CERN to rely on Rackspace's hybrid cloud solution – something that's based on OpenStack and offers both public and private options.

The Geneva-based physics organization has been known for its relation to groundbreaking finds. The first website was built and launched at CERN by Tim Berners-Lee in 1991.

Both companies have worked together in the area of cloud on past projects.
